

Games for Health Conference 2006
 Organized by the Games for Health Project
www.gamesforhealth.org
 Held at the University of Maryland School of Medicine

Thursday September 28

8:00 AM

Registration/Exhibits

9:00 AM

Opening Remarks

9:15 AM

Keynote by Pat Christian of Hopelab

9:50 AM

BREAK

10:00 AM

What We're Facing: CDC, NIH, and Hospital Administration staff share insights into problem spaces they're facing - and brainstorm about how games might play a role in the solution process

10:50 AM

BREAK

11:00 AM

The State of Exergaming: The ups and downs of its present and future	Stoping Infections with Team Training	Research Meetup: Researchers meet to exchange ideas and advise on future roadmaps
--	---------------------------------------	---	--

11:45 AM

Break

12:00 PM

Physical Therapy with Games	Re-mission as Intervention for Healthy Lifestyles	Biofeedback for Therapy & Training	Help w/Development
-----------------------------	---	------------------------------------	--------------------

12:30 PM

Lunch, Exhibits, Posters

2:00 PM

Video Game Donors & Activist Community (Featuring Child's Play & GetWellGamers)	Games About Health: How has commercial gaming approached health themes and gameplay?	Accessibility: How can games be made more accessible to those with impairments and disabilities
---	--	---	--

2:45 PM

Break

3:00 PM

Pulse!! First-Person Healthcare System Simulation	Metaphors: Understanding how to create various game-metaphors which can map to healthcare issues	Improving Attitudes Toward Disabled Peers with Games	Games Based EMR: Small group meets to design ideas for a game-based PHR
CPR training with an MMOG System		Second Life: A tour of health efforts in this virtual world

3:30 PM

4:00 PM

Break

4:10 PM

Games & Epidemics Panel: How can games help people understand and prepare for epidemics?	Obesity Group: Meetup of researchers and developers specifically looking to use games to battle the obesity epidemic	Project Blast: Aids education in gaming form
		Project Blast: A culturally relevant game about smoking

5:15 PM

Day One Reception courtesy of Virtual Heroes

Games for Health Conference 2006
 Organized by the Games for Health Project
www.gamesforhealth.org
 Held at the University of Maryland School of Medicine

Friday September 29
8:00 AM	Registration/Exhibits
9:00 AM	Statewide DDR: Rolling our DDR across West Virginia Public Schools	NanoSwarm: Diabetes Education in a Videogame	CDC Meetup: The Centers for Disease Control hosts a general meet & greet to exchange ideas and insights on videogames
9:55 AM	BREAK
10:00 AM	Mass Casualty Care Panel: Several projects report on their efforts to improve mass casualty response	The Body is a Game: Looking at how human biology, physiology, and disease can inspire great games	DDR Meetup & Reports: Researchers and projects using dancepad games meet and share experiences
10:50 AM	BREAK
11:00 AM	Developing Re-mission with Tim Ryan (Producer) & Dave Warhol (Lead Developer)	Making Hospitals Fun: How can games improve the patient hospitalization experience?	TC/3: Combat Casualty Care Training Game
11:45 AM	Break
12:00 PM	Games for Health Japan: What is Japan doing with games & health?	Using Portable Game Devices to Improve Pre-Op Anxiety
12:30 PM	Lunch, Exhibits, Posters
1:30 PM	Mind Blasts: Three Cognitive exercise startups discuss their individual efforts	Warming Up with Games: How gameplay before surgery might improve outcomes	Health Messaging Meetup: How to create a pervasive messaging platform for health in gaming?
2:15 PM	Break
2:25 PM	Glucoboy Now: An update on bringing Glucoboy to market	CyberTherapy with Games including PTSD and Personal Investigator
2:55 PM	Game Based EMR Report
3:25 PM	Break
3:35 PM	Town Hall
4:15 PM

The Games for Health Project is supported by...

Robert Wood Johnson Foundation

Special Thanks to our sponsors...

- Maryland Dept. of Business & Economic Development
- Baltimore County Dept. of Economic Development
- Virtual Heroes
- Forterra Systems
- Breakaway Games